Jeff— Surrounded by Tradition . . . Looking to the Future

Traditions which have been upheld during Jefferson High School's fifty-four years at 609 North Ninth Street, Lafayette, Indiana, have all had one thing in common—excellence. They have united the pupils and teachers, brought honor to the school, and reminded us of Jeff's proud past and beckoning future.

These time-honored traditions do not, however, prevent Jeff from preparing its 1800 pupils for their future. New textbooks, well-equipped classrooms, highly trained teachers, athletic contests, and social and educational organizations develop traits of wisdom, responsibility, and leadership in these students. Jeff is surrounded by traditions but is looking to the future.

Illustrious Seniors Take on Responsibilities

SENIORS LINDA SWEZEY and Joh-D Downie try applying some of their artistic talents to a senior's pair of yellow cords.

And Look Ahead to College and Adult Life

SENIORS MARTY HAUN and Belita Fannon file college catalogues as part of their jobs as scouts for the guidance counselors.

Responsibility accompanied senior superiority; traditions had to be upheld and the future had to be planned.

Before classes each morning the seniors proudly displayed their yellow cords in the main hall. The girls' yellow trade-marks ranged from culottes and jumpers to skirts and vests, and some of the senior boys renewed the tradition of a wear-a-thon. During the basketball season, the girls occupied the coveted position in the front rows of Jeff's enthusiastic Block Section while J Club members gave them vocal support.

The seniors' final year at Jeff was not all fun and laughter, however. The pupils needed to plan the future. Civics, a course required for graduation, had to be mastered. Term papers and other grueling assignments consumed their time. Challenging questions on the Scholastic Aptitude Test examined their knowledge, and college applications had to be completed. Truly, the year was decisive and exciting for the seniors.

Underclassmen Use

AS EXCITEMENT BEGAN TO GROW about the junior class election, Jeanne Crutchfield and Cindy Taylor compare all candidates.

The junior class, having finally graduated from their young sophomore status, had to start looking toward the future. Many of its members began visiting colleges and universities throughout Indiana. The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test, taken in October, prepared them for the College Boards, and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test made several of them eligible for large scholarships.

Many of the junior girls took part in the Block Section and upheld the junior-senior yelling rivalry. Some of the junior boys participated in varsity sports and earned their letters.

As B. L. METZGER eagerly receives his class ring, five other juniors anxiously wait to make a final payment on their rings.

Jeff's Library, Labs, and Other Facilities

The first day of school found Jeff's sophomores thoroughly confused; they were having trouble locating their classes in the intricate system of halls. After they had finally learned their way around, they began to discover Jeff's fine facilities, to enjoy many school activities, and to uphold old traditions.

Physical education and health classes were sprinkled with red corduroy; the sophomores were completing two of their graduation requirements. For extra-curricular activities the sophomore girls enjoyed being substitutes in the Block Section, and the boys improved their athletic skills in B-Team sports.

MR. ROBERT FINLEY, guidance counselor, gladly assists Debbie Hufford and Linda Hughes with the changing of their schedules.

"ONE BROWNIE AND SOME GUM," orders Mary Ann Schaible, as Rick Rouse, Kathi Shively, and Doug Sheets wait for their turns.

Victory and Coronation Spark Homecoming

AS FANS ENTHUSIASTICALLY GREET THEM, the Broncho football team bursts onto the field before the 1964 homecoming game.

The football game on October 16, 1964, may have seemed, at first glance, like any other Jeff football game. However, certain differences could be seen if one looked closer. The stands were a little more crowded than usual; many of the female fans wore large white chrysanthemums with red and black ribbons, and the goal posts were decorated with red and black crepe paper streamers. This game was indeed not an ordinary Jeff football game; it was the 1964 Homecoming game.

The crucial half finally arrived, and all eyes were focused on the five smiling, happy queen candidates being driven around the football field by members of the J Club. The candidates, who had been elected by the student body, nervously mounted the platform, and Joan Miller was announced the 1964 Homecoming Queen. Fred Bolyard, Student Council president, kissed the queen and presented her with a sparkling silver crown and a large bouquet of red roses. Queen Joan's court consisted of Sara Schaible, Debby Swartz, Sari Traeger, and Marsha White. Another high point of the half was honoring the 1959 football squad.

The 1964 Homecoming game came to an exciting climax when Jeff defeated Indianapolis Brebeuf 33-0. The nostalgic spectators would not soon forget the night.

FRED BOLYARD GIVES Homecoming Queen Joan Miller a congratulatory kiss as Sara Schaible and Debby Swartz look on.

Pep Sessions Arouse Bronchos' Will to Win

Several pep sessions were held to encourage spirit for the Jeff football and basketball teams. Senior girls depicted cheerleaders from every known era in history. The senior boys mimicked Jeff's cheerleaders in a mock basketball game before the Regionals. Sophomore girls introduced the young basketball team by bringing in the new spirit. At the Muncie Central pep session the junior girls mixed a victory brew. Members of the Cheerleaders' Advisory Board dressed as children and recited a poem about Gary Froebel.

The Sunshine Society sponsored Rev. Reed Stewart, and the Hi-Y, Rev. Joseph Wick at two convos. The choirs combined for a christmas convo. "Sugar Blues" and "Walk on the Wild Side" were highlights of the Dance Band convo on Dress-up Day. The Student Council sponsored two convos; the Band-Orchestra convo in which "St. Lawrence Overture" and "Orphans in Underworld" were played and the A Cappella convo that highlighted "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." In May, Honor Days were held: the Honor Roll, Honor Society members, varsity lettermen, and scholarship winners were honored.

JOAN MILLER GASPS as Rick Eli uses a shy, sly Texas method to make a pass at her during the all-school play, "Pillow Talk."

Love's Eternal Triangle Featured In Play

The title of this year's all-school play was "Pillow Talk." Based directly on the original screenplay, this modern stage play is filled with bright sophistication and delightful, unusual humor. Joan Miller played the part of Jan Morrow, a young career-minded interior decorator who shared a party line with a song-writer by the name of Brad Allen, portrayed by Rick Eli. Jan's suitor and client, Johnathon Forbes, was played by Stuart Brassie.

Throughout the three-act play Jan and Brad argue bitterly over the use of their party line. Brad leads Jan on by pretending to be a shy Texan, but his clever plan back-fires, and he falls in love with her. However, Johnathon Forbes is also in love with Jan. When the three accidentally meet, it becomes a time of misinterpreted questions and mixed emotions. The end is an "expected" surprise to everyone except Brad when Jan redecorates his apartment with a conglomeration of grotesque statues, gaudy lamps, and bright, clashing slipcovers and curtains.

James Hawker was the producer of the play. He was helped by the business manager, Richard Jaeger, and the stage director, George Haley. The student director of this year's play was Linda McMurray.

"WHAT IS THAT MONSTROSITY?" asks bewildered Barry Davis as Linda Ade shows disgust and Jim Abbinett says it is a vase.

SILVER CHARMS, an addition to the Jeff 1965 Prom, are being discussed by Larry Freestone, Dan Friedman, and Joh-D Downie.

BEFORE BUYING SUPPLIES for prom decorations, Ned Kivett helps decorations chairman Fred Bolyard check Jeff's wood supply.

"Count" Basie Headlines Senior Prom

THE MUSIC OF WILLIAM "COUNT" BASIE fills the Jeff showboat at the senior prom, "The New Orleans by Night," May 28, 1965.

Entering the Senior Prom held May 28, 1965, the seniors and their dates walked up a gangplank and into the elegant ballroom of a Mississippi riverboat, The New Orleans. The ballroom was decorated with red wallpaper and shimmering crystal chandeliers, under which the girls in their formal ball gowns and boys in their tuxedos danced to soft music from nine until one.

William "Count" Basie and his Orchestra played for the Prom which was titled "The New Orleans by Night." Basie's orchestra has been named the top big band in the nation by many famous magazines.

Marcia Grant was the general chairman of the Prom for the class of '65. The committee chairmen were Fred Bolyard, decorations; Joe Binkley, publicity; Katy Smith, band; Betty Korschot, invitations; Gib Knoop, pictures; Joh-D Downie, programs; and Debby Swartz, tickets. Seniors, who as underclassmen had helped with class projects, were excused from classes the week of the Prom to ready the gym, where the dance was to be held. Juniors, eager for good positions on committees for their own prom, served refreshments, staffed the checkroom, and took down decorations the Sunday following the prom.

Gold Tassels Distinguish Top Ten of Class

Commencement of the class of 1965 was held in the Jeff gymnasium on June 10. The gym was packed with proud parents, teachers, and underclassmen who fervently wished their own high school careers were ending. The graduating seniors experienced pangs of nostalgia, mingled with relief, hope, and excitement as they assembled outside the gym and the orchestra began the processional, "Pomp and Circumstance."

At the graduation ceremony, the members of the Lafayette School Board alternated in handing out the diplomas, and pictures were taken of each new alumnus as he walked off the stage. The graduation itself followed the Senior Prom, Senior Week, and the Vesper Service held the previous Sunday afternoon.

The top ten members of the class wore gold tassels on their caps, and those pupils who had perfect attendance throughout high school were given citations.

The orchestra and A Cappella Choir performed "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" under the direction of Richard Jaeger, and the graduates filed out of the gym to strains of "Sons of Jefferson."

BIG BAD SENIORS GRADUATE! Bob Munson scans the scene below him before leaving Jefferson High, his alma mater.

SHARON RUSK and Sandy Brady listen closely as Josten salesman Tom White tells the merits of his company's announcements.

Looking to the Future

In an age of man-made satellites, high speed computers, and political unrest, experience and accumulated knowledge must be relayed to pupils. Accelerated programs such as BSCS Biology, PSSC Physics, Chem Study, and MSG Math are designed to prepare Jeff's pupils for tomorrow's technical world. These courses and others teach a pupil to examine facts, analyze a problem, come to a logical conclusion, and communicate his knowledge to others. Without this ability the success of our democratic society would be doomed for failure; man would be unable to choose capable leaders. Yes, Jeff academics are looking to the future.

Academics

HAVING LEARNED about the different parts of a car, Steve Smith tests his knowledge on one of the cars in his auto shop class.

SCRATCHING HIS HEAD, Tom Barry looks with amazement at row on row of tools in machine shop, while in search of a wrench.

Useful Skills Learned in Industrial Classes

WORKING ON HIS ASSIGNMENT in fifth hour mechanical drawing class, Larry Haynes devotes his attention to a framing plan.

The printing classes of the Jeff Manual Arts Department were the printers of the Booster, dance programs, identification cards, and school forms. The woodworking classes designed and made various ornaments which tested their creativity. Auto mechanics pupils learned to repair minor engine faults, and electronics pupils studied the structure of electrical circuits.

The only course in the department offered to both boys and girls was mechanical drawing, which offered a three year program. The first year provided basic understanding of drafting techniques, the second year acquainted pupils with machine fundamentals, and the third year offered architectural drawing, which gave the pupils an understanding of buildings and building structures. Drafting, an important graphic language, is used by all people involved in production processes, not just by engineers, as many people think.

Pupils in machine shop learned to operate basic mechanical tools. After analyzing difficult diagrams and using mathematics, they were able to manufacture tools such as hammers and vices. The operations learned in the machine shop classes enabled students to gain local employment more easily.

All Phases of Home Management Stressed

Are you able to bake a cake without using a mix? Can you read patterns well enough to make a suit or a dress? Do you realize the problems that can occur when there is a divorce? If your answers to these questions are negative, then it is certain that you have not participated in the home economics classes at Jeff.

Taught in these courses were clothing, family care and child development, family living, home management, and foods. The exception to the rule that only girls were allowed to take home economics was the family living course which boys could take. This course provided the pupils with a solid background for their future roles as marriage partners. Discussed in this course were the aspects of dating, the necessity of making a good marital choice, and the influence that children have in marriage. In this course viewpoints of both boys and girls were studied in solving problems.

"Trix with Mixes," "Foreign Foods," "Cooking for Two," and "Cookie Time" were favorite units studied by the foods classes; pupils in the family care class enjoyed learning to take care of family members who do not feel well.

IN THEIR THIRD HOUR home nursing class, Sally Davis and Sue Clifton, both seniors, show the proper method of making a bed.

THE CHOCOLATE PUDDING is finally finished; Patty Baer checks recipe as Betty Pugh and Claudia Emmons pour the pudding.

PEGGY HODGES CHECKS the shoulder seams on the blouse Lynn Moorhead has just made, while Twyla Louderback marks her list.

SOPHOMORES MARSHA METZGER and Pam Moffitt demonstrate to the rest of their gym class the proper rope jumping techniques.

IN THE LITTLE GYM Harriett Ware, Sharon Whiteaker, and Cindy Willey join the rest of the class in a co-ordination test.

Physical Fitness Plan Taught in Jeff Gym

The President's Council on Physical Fitness asked the youth and adults of this country to take an active interest in the fitness of its citizens. The physical education classes at Jeff fulfilled this request and provided enjoyable recreation as well as the necessary hard, challenging work.

For many days the girls' physical education classes were seen running through the gym balcony clad in their bright blue gym suits. They were headed toward the "little gym" where they learned modern dance movements, tumbling, and table tennis. Other days found them on the gym bleachers engrossed in tests covering the rules and history of various sports. When the boys weren't occupying the main gym, the girls used it for basketball, volleyball, and badminton.

During good weather, the boys' classes ran to the Jeff football field where they played softball, football, and other vigorous outdoor sports. During the winter, while the girls occupied the "little gym," the boys used the gym to improve their basketball skills.

The boys' tiring calisthenics and the girls' posture-improving exercises, which caused many sore muscles, and the cold showers at the end of each class were bad memories for sophomore gym pupils.

JERRY LINDSTROM TRIES his skill at volleyball while student teacher Forest Farmer instructs on some of the finer points.

Skeletal Structures Studied by Sophomores

ROBERT COFFEY TRIES to take a nap in health class as Jerry Bailey attempts to practice types of artificial respiration.

Can you distinguish between anesthetists and anesthesiologists, or internes and internists, chiropodists and chiropractors, or psychiatrists and psychologists? If you were a student in one of the sophomore health classes this year, you could.

Mixing learning with pleasure, the girls' health classes enjoyed a grooming "buzz" and an alcohol and tobacco panel. One other activity which afforded much pleasure for the students was applying first aid to their fellow classmates.

The boys' classes studied the need for a well balanced diet. They learned how good, nutritious food could affect their physical and mental health. The functioning of the bones, muscles, and organs of the body was also studied.

While mastering beneficial health rules, students became acquainted with the various health facilities located in and around Lafayette. With the completion of the health course the students had gained experience and knowledge needed to attain perfect balance in mental and physical health, and they had greatly increased their vocabulary. Their studies had made them more responsible, well-informed citizens and better family members.

IN GIRLS' HEALTH CLASS Judy Jones and Marsha Cartmill play nurse on the cluttered battlefield of the Pine Room's floor.

Jeff's Library Loaded Its Shelves

TAKING TIME OFF from her library duties, Susie Simpson takes an ornament from Mrs. Peek and helps trim the Christmas tree.

LIBRARY ASSISTANT Carol Jones checks the names of Mike Maddox, Bill Hanks, and Ron Gipson to report back to study hall.

Located down the hall from study hall 214 is Jefferson High School's library. Under the direction of Mrs. Margene Lewis and Mrs. Frieda E. Peek, twenty-five student assistants checked books in and out of the library, sent out notices informing pupils of overdue books, and collected the three cents which the pupils owed for each day a book was overdue. Each assistant was also assigned sections of the library to keep in order. Many times these pupils helped others learn to use the library facilities more easily.

Every year new books are added to the library. Along with having exciting novels for book reports and informative reference materials, Jeff's library subscribes to over one hundred different magazines.

The library was useful to many classes. The various speech classes were continuously trying to find interesting material on which to make speeches, and composition classes became quite well acquainted with the library while doing the research for their required term papers.

Library work was mixed with fun at dusting parties held after school. After dusting all of the shelves and cleaning the library, all of the ambitious workers were rewarded with pizza.

Attractive art displays between the second and third floors at the front of the building aroused pupils' and teachers' interest. These displays were the creations of Miss Georgianna Kienly's art pupils.

Throughout the school year the art pupils studied drawing, painting, and modeling and learned how to use their talents skillfully and easily. Other aspects of art were also studied. Ceramics, the art of making articles from baked clay, and the designing and painting of masks were two phases of study which the pupils found interesting. Other works of the pupils were done with oil paints, water color, tempera paint, and chalk.

The smallest class at Jeff, music theory, was taught by Richard Jaeger. This class, which met third hour, had five pupils. Melody, harmony and dissonance, and polyphony were phases of music studied in this class. Building different chords from basic patterns with the help of the piano was also learned.

At the completion of art theory and music theory, the pupils had gained an appreciation of aesthetics, a branch of philosophy dealing with beauty.

LEROY DATISH STEPS BACK from his painting and critically notes it's proportions so that it may pass Miss Kienly's standards.

Art, Music Theory Cultivate Hidden Talents

MR. JAEGER SHOWS Steve Virgin and Judy Cunningham how to make use of harmonization techniques in music theory class.

THEIR SKETCH BOOKS come alive for Olivia Kemble and Jacques leSourd when they put scenes they designed themselves on them.

Pupils Plan to Enter Careers in Business

DURING MR. CORTNER'S first hour transcription class, Mary Owen listens to a dictaphone and tries typing what she hears.

Fingers flew from key to key as pupils in Jeff's Commercial Department improved their typing skills. In Typing I the pupils were introduced to the basic fundamentals of typing. When these pupils advanced to Typing II and III, their speed, skill, and accuracy were emphasized. These courses enabled the pupils to prepare for successful business careers.

Some Jeff pupils' class notes were written in a new type of foreign language, shorthand. This writing technique prepared them for office, as well as school dictations. Transcription enabled the pupils to transfer their shorthand notes to longhand.

Financial systems, communications, and filing were among the topics discussed in basic business. This course enabled its pupils to understand the basic principles of a big business.

Bookkeeping pupils learned to keep records of business transactions and make reports showing the condition of a business.

In business law pupils were taught the limits placed on business dealings and the actions of businessmen when dealing with one another.

MR. CORTNER AIDS Pat Good in centering an announcement headline to enable her to complete her assignment during class.

POUNDING AWAY ON one of Jeff's old fangled adding machines, Mike Kramer attempts to balance his columns for bookkeeping.

SENIOR SPEECH PUPIL Jack Hill busily jots down notes for his extemporaneous speech as the moment of truth swiftly nears.

TESTING THE FACILITIES of the newly redecorated radio room, Mr. Fraser cues Lynn Balser, Judy Cunningham, and Dave Lewis.

Speech, Radio, TV Cure Stage Fright

Confidence and poise in speaking before an audience, in front of a microphone, or in general conversation were gained in the various speech courses offered at Jeff. The pupils began with speech development. If they wished, they could proceed to Speech I and advanced speech, which were taught by James Hawker. For those interested in announcing and advertising, courses in radio and television were offered.

Speech I classes experienced the fun and nervousness of surprise extemporaneous speeches. After examining the facts about a certain subject, a student would prepare to present the facts to his classmates in an interesting way. When the pupils had conquered their fears, they became accustomed to speaking.

Radio and television courses were taught by William Fraser. His pupils learned the qualities of a good announcer and successful commercials and the signals and terms used in commercial broadcasting. Taped interviews for "Broncho Highlights," "Meet the Student," and "Meet the Teacher" were prepared by these pupils.

ON MONDAY MORNING John Cripe and Jim Barton meet in Mr. Hawker's room to discuss experiences of a speech contest.

LAURIE SMITH DANCES to the strumming of Mr. Green's guitar as Patti Zimmerman and Charles Deur read from The Pearl.

English, Comp, Journalism Required Study

Honors English devoted its time to analyzing and criticizing intriguing novels. Honor students were expected to write themes with original ideas and no grammatical errors. The academic and general English programs at Jeff taught grammar and literature to sophomores and juniors. Commas and capitals vexed even the smartest ones at times. Burdened with homework papers, book reports, and themes, the students learned sentence structures, proper grammar, and the intense meanings of stories.

Journalism classes learned the functions of a successful newspaper. Trying to use what they learned resulted in more interesting stories.

After experimenting with several writing techniques, composition students learned to express themselves more clearly. The real test of their knowledge came when they were required to compose a theme during class. Opinion essays and description paragraphs, along with term papers, utilized their previously learned knowledge of English.

MR. HOPKINS GIVES Trina Bingaman a few helpful pointers about her opening paragraph of the in-class theme she is writing.

FINISHING A TALK they began in civics, Barb Booher discards her beloved Goldwater tokens to Denny Cahill's delight.

Social Studies Classes Probe into Foreign

WORLD PROBLEMS SEEM small when compared to the problems these pupils are having finding information to make reports.

How will Krushchev's ouster affect Russian-American relationships? Will the Labor Party's victory in England change that country's U. S. policy? Should the Federal government aid education? Intriguing questions of this nature challenged Jeff's social studies pupils and prepared them to be competent voters.

The deaths of Sir Winston Churchill and former President Herbert Hoover stimulated discussions on world leaders' policies in the World History and United States History classes. The United States History classes also kept up-to-date on the progress of the American troops in Viet Nam.

Learning the structure of the local and national government was the civics pupils' job. During the elections the pupils in World Problems and civics held mock campaigns for Democrat and Republican candidates.

The floods which raged through Washington, Idaho, and Oregon presented senior sociology pupils with a problem to solve, and Indiana Life pupils tried to alleviate Indiana's social and economic burdens.

The pros and cons of the proposed tax cut were discussed by the pupils in the economics classes. These pupils learned the intricacies of the stock market by "investing" and watching their stocks' progress.

CRAIG McCONAHAY, senior Indiana life history student, demonstrates how to operate the Indiana election machine correctly.

Nations' U.S. Policy

AS KATHI KISER concludes her description of the inaugural parade, Jim Abbinett prepares to report on Johnson's address.

LITTLE LINDA HUMPHREY does her daily calisthenics in trying to pull down a map in Mr. Skibinski's third hour history class.

Jeff's Language Department Expands as

"BE CAREFUL—don't drop Julius!" warns John McKee as he hands Cindy Hall a bust of Caesar to admire for Latin class.

"¿Cuántos años tiene usted? Tengo diez y seis años." Graduates of Jeff's first year Spanish classes could readily tell a person what this dialogue means. Basic, everyday conversations such as this were learned in first year Spanish, French, and German classes.

To stimulate the pupils' interest in the foreign languages, audio and visual aids were employed. German pupils used records for home practice; Spanish, French, and German classes listened to taped dialogues; and films spoken in the native languages taught the pupils about the people and their countries.

At Christmas time the French classes learned French Christmas carols, and German pupils had a dinner of sauerbraten and sauerkraut cooked for them by a German chef. Reading Spanish comic strips occupied the Spanish pupils' extra class time during the year.

The Latin pupils' course of study varied from that of the modern languages' course. Roman culture, writings of Caesar, and ancient legends formed the basis for their work.

To extend Jeff's complete language program, a third year of French and Spanish was offered.

READING Die Zeit, a weekly German newspaper, Jim Barton and Diane Berryman review current events as well as vocabulary.

Interest in Foreign Nations Increases

"BONJOUR, JUDY, Comment allez vous?" "Tres bien, merci." In Mrs. Gaunt's first year French class, Judy Bradshaw and Ler-rill White practice greetings and dialogues. Mimicking different recordings is also a common practice among first year students.

MARK BRAUN PROUDLY EXPLAINS to his Algebra III class how he worked this long problem as Mr. Bonham admires his fine work.

Second year of algebra is usually taken by juniors after background work in geometry and first year algebra is completed.

Angles, Cosines, Co-ordinates, and Proofs

LINDA COON GIVES a step by step evaluation of a math function on an overhead projector in Mr. Conkling's first hour class.

In modern society the necessity for a strong background in mathematics is readily apparent. Numbers are used in nearly every activity encountered in contemporary life. The math courses at Jeff are designed to meet the needs of every pupil.

For pupils who do not intend to go on to college, there were basic courses in general arithmetic and its practical applications. Pupils who set their sights on vocational training programs benefited from the knowledge acquired in the study of this math.

Individuals with college in their future found a wide selection of more difficult math courses at their disposal. Plane geometry, advanced algebra, college algebra, trigonometry, and analytical geometry were intended to prepare these more inquisitive pupils for college level study.

One of the innovations in the math program at Jeff was the School Mathematics Study Group. This experimental course taught pupils to understand the theory behind modern math. Originally given to only a select group of students, this course was offered to both average and above average pupils. By showing the pupils the why, and not just the how, teachers hoped to create a keener interest in math.

REASSURED BY A FIRE EXTINGUISHER if the water heater or steam pipes should explode, Mrs. James helps one of her math pupils.

Create Interest in the Mathematics Classes

NED KIVETT AND Dan Friedman find that using combined brain power is their only hope in SMSG Functions V class.

Jeff Scientists Study Theories and Phyla

This year Jeff pupils were given the opportunity to gain a better understanding of science through a large variety of courses.

Some pupils studied only one year of biology, physics, or chemistry. Others were enrolled in a special science course that entailed three semesters of chemistry and three semesters of physics. Also offered was Physical Science, a general study of all fields of science, and Qualitative Analysis, a laboratory course involving the analysis of chemical compounds.

Physics pupils studied the laws governing motion, the particle and wave theory of light; and they performed experiments to demonstrate the basic principles they studied. Pupils enrolled in Chem Study explored the structure of atoms and the changes they underwent when forming various compounds. The characteristics of different compounds and their names were also learned. BSCS Biology classes and conventional biology classes advanced from the study of simple organic matter to the study of complex organisms. Biology pupils also studied methods of soil conservation and fundamental principles of heredity.

SOPHOMORE MIKEE SPARKS grimly accepts the task of inspecting a dead fish and sting ray for an experiment in biology class.

IN MR. KLINE'S Chem. Study III, Jim Downie prepares a series of diluted solutions for an experiment in heats of reaction.

Surrounded by Tradition . . .

Selecting vivacious, smiling queens and proud kings; selling chocolate candy, popcorn, or fruitcakes door-to-door; voting for officers; and sponsoring mixers are all traditional parts of Jeff organizations. By upholding these traditions, the members of these organizations broaden their knowledge and bring honor to themselves and to the school. To help make Lafayette a better place in which to live, the members of these clubs print newspapers, help needy families at Christmas, learn about their chosen profession, and work for the community. The success of Jeff organizations depends upon how well they execute traditions.

With hopes set on a tour of Mexico, Spanish Club members earnestly worked toward obtaining the money needed for the trip. Their major fund-raising projects during the year included presenting Spanish movies with English sub-titles, selling popcorn, and sponsoring a mixer.

A Christmas Fiesta was planned with a menu consisting entirely of Spanish foods. Entertainment for the event was provided by a Spanish folk singer. Other activities enjoyed by the club were visits to the Purdue Language Laboratories and guest speakers from Spain, Latin America, and travel bureaus.

The purpose of the Spanish Club was to give students the opportunity to learn more about the language and customs of the Spanish people. This knowledge would benefit those pupils who plan to visit Mexico.

The sponsor of the Spanish Club was R. A. McGlothlin. The officers who spurred the members to reach the goal of a trip to Mexico were Carla Parks, president; Mary Ewan, vice president; Katy Smith, secretary; and Sonny Gerber, treasurer.

PATTI ZIMMERMAN is about to sell a bag of popcorn to raise money for the Spanish Club which is planning a trip to Mexico.

Tramp Day, Dress-up

To obtain more insight as to how an effective, democratic student council operates, Jeff pupils attended the State Student Council Convention held in the fall at Arlington High School in Indianapolis.

Traditional activities maintained by the Student Council included sponsoring a sophomore orientation tour, the class elections, and a Christmas tea for the faculty. The Council also sponsored a back-to-school mixer, participated in the Homecoming ceremonies, and initiated Tramp Day and Dress Up Day. Issuing the student identification cards and guest passes needed for admission to the mixers was another useful function administered by council members.

Leading the Student Council in promoting the relationship among the students, teachers, and administration were Fred Bolyard, president; Mike Smith, vice president; Joyce Ellsberry, secretary; and Wally Reeve, treasurer. Ernest Cortner and Francis Lane were the Council's chief advisers.

Honor Society members busied themselves with amending the club's constitution to include the paying of dues by the members. The procedure for being selected by the society was changed also, and members ordered gold pins and charms.

Traditional activities maintained by the society were ushering for both commencement and the vesper services. Graduating members of the society were distinguished by a star in front of their names in the programs at commencement services.

Officers of the Honor Society were Mark Bohnhorst, president; John Crook, vice president; and Barbara Sites, secretary-treasurer. Adviser of the society was Kenneth Conkling.

Requirements for admittance into the Wilma Fletmyer Chapter of the National Honor Society are that a student possess characteristics of outstanding scholarship, leadership, character, and service. The pupil must be in the upper six per cent of the senior class or the upper four per cent of the junior class scholastically. New members are admitted to the Society in the fall of each year.

ON THEIR WAY to a meeting in Mr. Conkling's room are Honor Society officers, John Crook, Mark Bohnhorst, and Barb Sites.

Performing services which helped the community and school was the goal reached by the Key Club during the 1964-65 school year. Larry Holder was elected president of the club. Other officers were Glenn Marshall, vice president; Jack Sovern, secretary; and Jim Linville, treasurer. George Newell, Milton Green, and Kenneth Kauffman were the club's sponsors.

The general objectives of the club were to develop initiative and leadership, to provide experience in living and working together, to serve the school and community, and to develop useful citizens.

The organization held a car wash, polished school trophies, ushered for football and basketball games, and acted as Santa Claus for underprivileged children.

Work wasn't the only activity of the Key Club. The members also enjoyed such events as their annual hayride, a Christmas float, and a picnic.

"HURRY UP; three cars are waiting," shouts Jim Van der Veen to Larry Holder and Don Gilbert during the Key Club car wash.

Seven hundred lords and ladies anxiously awaited the coronation of a new king. The scene was not England's Westminster Abbey, however, but the 1964 Sunshine Bronchoette Gallop at Purdue's South Ballroom. Anticipation mounted as Bill Heilman and Jim Moffett were announced second runners-up and Dan Walkey was named first runner-up. Finally Barb Booher, Sunshine Society president, crowned Bob Munson the 1964 Gallop King and presented him with a royal crown and three congratulatory kisses.

Helping the club plan its activities were the other officers: Carol Conkling, vice president; Linda McMurray, treasurer; Charlene Yoder, secretary; and Marlene Yoder, parliamentarian. Mrs. Ruth Murphy and Mrs. Sheena Kvakovszky sponsored the organization.

Many projects highlighted a year of activity for Sunshine. Sunshine sold candy and Homecoming mums in October, sponsored a basketball mixer in November, and helped distribute Christmas baskets in December. The Dad-Daughter Banquet was held in January, Valentine carnations were sold in February, and the Mother-Daughter Banquet was held in May.

The Jeff chapter of the National Forensic League, under the direction of James Hawker, completed another eventful year in the field of competitive speech. Late in 1964 the team won the seventh consecutive State Speech Title for Jeff, and in national competition the Jeff team won the speech and debate meet. In addition to this, James Hawker was named National Speech Coach of the Year. On Saturday, March 6, 1965, the Jeff team won the Indiana district debating championship, and Mark Bohnhorst and John Crook qualified for the national debate meet to be held in Omaha, Nebraska, in July.

Competing against teams from North Central of Indianapolis, Logansport, Howe Military Academy, Evansville Reitz, Chrysler of New Castle, and Hammond, the team brought many ribbons and trophies home to Jeff. Speeches were given in categories of drama, humor, poetry, original, oratorical declamation, and boys' and girls' extemporaneous.

Encouraging constructive school spirit among students and faculty, providing communication among school organizations and the cheerleaders, and assisting the cheerleaders with their duties were the main objectives of the Cheerleaders' Advisory Board.

Members of the board included the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders and their alternates and pupils selected from the members of the Student Council, J Club, Key Club, and Block Section. Miss Jean Hilkert was the adviser with officers Linda Hays, president; Betty Korschot, vice president; and Diane Brooks, secretary. The Athletic Department paid club expenses.

Traditional projects continued by the board were organizing fan buses to out-of-town games, planning pep sessions, sponsoring Homecoming, conducting a yell contest at tourney time, sponsoring the Sectional Tea, providing signs and tags to boost school spirit, conducting cheerleader elections, and sponsoring a mixer.

Pupils Study Techniques of Assisting Dr.

Soft candlelight lighted Jefferson High School's Pine Room as the Future Nurses Club initiated Elaine Ellison as its president, Pat Ainsworth as vice president, Cherrie Butz as secretary, and Jeanne Snyder as treasurer. Mrs. LaNelle Baxter, Jeff's new school nurse and sponsor of the club, directed the ceremony.

Several programs highlighted the monthly meetings. A panel discussion given by some nurses, and a tour of Home Hospital were two programs. Later in the year a doctor spoke of the topic "Student to Mother." In March a representative of Indiana University's School of Nursing spoke to the girls. In April the club members had the opportunity to visit Indiana University's medical center. During that same month the girls in Future Nurses held a Dad-Daughter banquet.

To earn money the Future Nurses club sponsored a mixer after the basketball game against New Castle. The members also sold home-made baked goods at the various shopping centers in Lafayette.

During Thanksgiving a basket for a needy family was prepared; at Christmastime the club went to Home Hospital and sang Christmas carols to the patients.

"FEEL ANY BETTER?" asks Jeanne Snyder, office scout for Mrs. Baxter, as she applies an ice pack to Mike Worthington's eye.

Jeff's FTA club started off a successful year with a get-acquainted party which featured potato chips, cokes, and brownies. In November, three carloads of Future Teacher members drove to the Lily Life Science Building at Purdue University to see and hear what the job of a college teacher consisted of. At another of the monthly meetings held in the Pine Room, three retired teachers of Jefferson High School spoke to FTA members in a casual panel discussion. The Student Teacher, Special Education Teachers, and films concerning the different phases of the teaching profession were the programs of the other monthly meetings.

Future Teachers of America sponsored the mixer after the basketball game against Crawfordsville in January. In May they gave a scholarship to a graduating senior member of the club. This organization also sponsored the school's guide program; FTA members were stationed at all of the different school entrances to welcome Jeff's many visitors.

Robert Stormont sponsored the organization; Joh-D Downie was the club's president; Nancy Fix was vice president; Laveda Hartlep was secretary, and Art Conner served as treasurer.

Membership in Broncho Broadcasters exceeded one hundred this year. The pupils in this organization were given the opportunity to learn more about television and radio work.

Using Jeff's newly redecorated radio room, members of Broncho Broadcasters learned correct procedures for producing a good radio show. The more experienced members participated in radio and television events at speech meets throughout the year.

The club began its activities with a Halloween party. Several guest speakers were featured at the meetings. A trip to an Indianapolis television station during the spring climaxed the year's activities.

William Fraser, Jeff's radio teacher, was the organization's sponsor. Fred Randolph served as president; Mary Henk as vice president; Carol Jones carried out the secretarial duties; and Kitty Ewan served as treasurer.

The purposes of Jefferson High School's Library Club were to promote pupils' interest and knowledge of libraries and to acquaint the club's members with various library procedures. Sponsored by Mrs. Margene Lewis, the club elected their officers: Vicki Wainscott, president; Virginia Sites, vice president; Nancy Fix, secretary; Ann Richeson, treasurer; and Janice Wainscott, program chairman.

One of the Library Club's money making projects was selling red and black ball point pens; these were imprinted with the 1964-65 Broncho basketball schedule. The members also worked at concession stands at ball games. This money was used to help a needy family at Thanksgiving and at Christmas. The Library Club also held a Christmas party, and in the spring they had a picnic. A wiener roast held at Tecumseh Trail Park highlighted the club's active year.

In March the twenty-one members of the Library Club honored the teachers with a tea, whose theme was centered around Saint Patrick's Day. Some of the new books to be placed in the library during the next school year were shown. This gave the teachers an opportunity to investigate the library's coverage of information relating to their subject.

Films Shown in Auditorium and Classrooms

ROGER RICHEY shows junior Don Coy how to view a film strip before showing it. This is a service of the Audio-Visual Club.

The maintenance of all film equipment was one of the responsibilities of the boys in Jeff's Audio-Visual Club. They also set up and ran the equipment for films and filmstrips, showed movies in classrooms and the auditorium for classes and various school organizations, and gave sneak previews of films to pupils and teachers to help them choose suitable films and equipment for their use.

In addition to their work with projection equipment, the Audio-Visual assistants took care of the opaque projectors, the tape recorders, the record players, and the other film equipment the library maintained.

This year the boys did not elect officers as they had done in previous years. They decided to become purely a service organization and not to function as a club. Their sponsor, Mrs. Frieda Peek, helped the boys accomplish their goal of offering audio-visual service to any teacher, pupil, or school organization that should desire it.

To end their year on a bright note and to celebrate a successful year of service, the Audio-Visual assistants had a picnic during Senior Week. This picnic was held at Lake Freeman and was the only activity not related to their audio-visual work.

J Club Leads Boys'

"Give me an E! . . . Give me an x!" shout J Club cheerleaders, Mike Jones and Jack Jones, as they lead the organization's cheering section to support the Broncho basketball team. Cheering the team was not the only J Club activity at the basketball games; the lettermen also wielded mops to dust the maple court and held ropes during half time and after the game.

To promote and lead in the development of a wholesome and sportsmanlike attitude at all athletic events, to encourage and support all school activities, to create fellowship among varsity athletes, and to work for the general welfare of the school were the goals of the J Club. Leading the members to accomplish these goals were Jack Sovern, president; Mike Jones, vice president; Wally Reeve, secretary; Dan Walkey, treasurer; Joe Eylens, sergeant-at-arms; and Marion Crawley, sponsor.

J Club members also displayed natural acting ability at a pep session, sponsored a football mixer, held a Christmas party and a pizza party, and helped the Sunshine Society distribute Christmas baskets.

New Skills Learned by DCE Participants

NINA BALSER, one of twenty-nine Jeff pupils employed in the DCE program, works in the office of Washington Grade School.

Students who wished to work at a part-time job and also to attend classes at Jeff found Diversified Cooperative Education, commonly known as DCE, the program in which to participate. Working as drafters, cooks, dental assistants, machinists, clerks, or school secretaries, the pupils developed a wholesome attitude toward the dignity of work.

Traditional activities of the group included having fund-raising car washes in the fall and spring and sponsoring a mixer in the cafeteria after a basketball game. Other activities of DCE included an employer-employee banquet at the end of the year and a roller skating party at Aca y Alla.

K. R. Leffler, the group's sponsor, guided the club to promote respect and acceptance of part-time cooperative vocational training between the school and the community. Ruth Ann Hill was the president of the organization, Claude Hartley was the vice president, and Judy Richardson was the secretary-treasurer. With diligent and conscientious work DCE members promoted a good relationship between Jefferson High School and Lafayette businesses.

Commercial Club of Jeff Guarantees Fun

Students whose interests centered around the field of secretarial work formed Jeff's Commercial Club. In the fall the club held its annual get-acquainted picnic at Murdock Park. Christmas time brought a gift-exchange party, and at Thanksgiving the club gave a basket of food to a needy family. A trip to a business office and several guest speakers enlightened the group on various job opportunities in the commercial field. To round out the year's activities program, the club held a tea for the mothers and a dinner in the spring for senior members. The selling of personalized stationery in the fall boosted the organization's treasury.

Diana Brand was president of the Commercial Club and Virginia Sites, vice president; Judy Richardson, treasurer; Frances White, secretary; and Ramona Tyson, historian. They worked under the advice of sponsors, James S. Stalker and Mrs. Mary Jane Boyle.

Barbara Sites Cupid's Pick at Hi-Y Dance

First on the agenda of the many activities of the Jeff Hi-Y club, one of the school's three service organizations, was sponsoring the annual Thanksgiving convocation. When the Christmas holidays arrived, the club, assisted by the Sunshine Society and Key Club, built a float for the annual Lafayette Christmas Parade, bought and decorated a tree for the school, and gave baskets of food to needy families.

The Hi-Y's purpose, to maintain and extend throughout the school high standards of Christian character, was kept as the organization presented the annual Easter Convocation.

Leading and organizing the club's many activities were the officers, Jim Yuill, president; Adam Evans, vice president; Wally Reeve, secretary; Steve McFarland, treasurer; and Mike Kramer, chaplain. The club was sponsored by David Reeve. Business meetings were held in the Pine Room, and recreational meetings were held at the YMCA.

To Meet Deadline for Fifty-Second Volume

Writing copy, trying to get ideas for pictures, and selling subscriptions occupied the Nautilus staff's time. Early in the fall the staff met to decide on the color and design for the book's cover.

New methods for identifying underclass pictures and taking subscriptions made the staff members' work easier. Four new typewriters and a ditto machine also speeded up work. To encourage the staff members to meet deadlines and to celebrate the meeting of a deadline, pizza parties were often held after school.

Kenneth Andrews supervised the staff's work. The tri-editors—Sara Schaible, Connie Guinnup, and Sarah Catron—had to make the decisions. Sara Schaible was responsible for the book's layout and pictures. Seeing that the copy, headlines, and captions were written and fitted into the allotted space was Connie Guinnup's duty. The annual Booster convocation, featuring a skit by several of Jeff's teachers, spearheaded the subscription drive of Jeff's school newspaper. To help stimulate sales, free issues of the Booster were distributed to all pupils and faculty members after the convocation. One of the highlights of the year for the Booster staff was a trip to Milwaukee, Wisconsin; the staff traveled by chartered plane and visited the newspaper plant of the Milwaukee Journal. In the spring, staff members were presented awards for their work.

The Booster, written and published bi-monthly in four-page editions, except for special Christmas and senior issues, was edited by Lois Rifner. Assisting her were Carolyn Niemantsverdriet, news editor; John McKee, feature editor; Dave Lewis, sports editor; and Linda Swezey, business manager. Behind the scenes were the faithful reporters, the advertising staff, and the printers. C. J. Hopkins, serving as sponsor and adviser, contributed much to the success of the paper. Elbert Morgan supervised the printing.

Pupils interested in securing a greater understanding of the German people, their language, their customs, and their country attended meetings of the German Club. Tourists of Germany and natives of Germany spoke, and film strips were viewed.

Business meetings were held to organize car washes, paper drives, and a mixer. The funds obtained from these projects were used to provide transportation to a German settlement in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and have a Christmas party featuring a German cook and entertainment. A committee for the development of a club constitution was also organized.

Officers for the 1964-65 school year were Jim Barton, president; Steve Berkey, vice president; Carolyn Niemantsverdriet, secretary; and Linda Hughes, treasurer. R. A. McGlothlin, Jeff's German teacher, was the sponsor of the club.

BEFORE THE CHRISTMAS meeting Marie Kuss runs through her skit as Dave Bippas, Karen Babb, and Jim Hudgins listen.

Concert Choir Harmonizes in Christmas Fest

PAYING VERY CLOSE ATTENTION to Mr. Jaeger, the Girls' Concert Choir shows good posture for much better quality in singing.

Harmoniously performing on the courthouse steps, members of the Girls' Concert Choir took part in the annual Lafayette Christmas Sing and provided enjoyment for the many local citizens who attended the festive occasion. The choir, adorned in cranberry jumpers and pink blouses, also joined the other Jeff vocal organizations and the orchestra to present the Thanksgiving convocation.

In the fall the girls sold candy to help raise money for the Jeff Choral Department. A picnic at Happy Hollow Park in the spring with the other Jeff choirs was another activity for the Concert Choir.

This organization had twenty-five members and served primarily as a training ground for vocal proficiency. The first semester the girls learned vocal techniques and sight reading of music.

The Concert Choir was directed by Richard Jaeger, who helped the members develop their musical talents. Carol Walters was elected president in the spring, and she led the organization in its many activities. She was assisted by Janice Elmore, vice president, and Linda Humphrey, secretary-treasurer.

THE OFFICERS of Jeffersonians, Lynn Moorehead, Jeanna Jones, Judy Davis, and Steve Hayes, discuss plans for the coming year.

Competing with many of the finest mixed choirs in the state, Jeffersonians participated in the annual state choral contest sponsored by the Indiana Music Educators Association. Performing at Lenten services in churches throughout the Lafayette area also provided experience for the choir members. Several other shows were given by Jeffersonians during the year. One of these, given in November, was a parents appreciation show. John Clark directed the group during its performances. Officers Jeanna Jones, president; Lynn Moorehead, vice president; Judy Davis, secretary, and Steve Hayes, treasurer, assisted him.

Singing selections that ranged from sacred and secular classics to modern show and dance tunes, this versatile mixed choir received intensive instruction in the development of good singing, music fundamentals, general good musicianship, and the preparation of music for performances. Due to an increased interest in music, Jeffersonians had a membership of sixty-one. The choir was composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors and served as a stepping stone into A Cappella. Membership was both elective and selective, with enrollment up twenty-five per cent from last year.

and Jazz for Shows

Donning long, white brocade formals this year, the forty-eight members of Voices of Jeff sang numerous songs, ranging from pop and jazz to classical and spiritual. The group, composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls, entertained many clubs and civic organizations throughout the year. They participated in the annual Christmas show sponsored by the Music Department, the Pythian Home Christmas show, and Jeff's Christmas convocation. In addition to this, the group performed in the Indiana State Music Association contest in April.

Acting as president of Voices of Jeff for the 1964-65 school year was Marty Haun. She was assisted by Marilyn Chatfield, vice president, and Niki Maitlen, secretary-treasurer. The group's director was Richard Jaeger, head of Jeff's Music Department. Membership in the organization was both elective and selective, with the members being chosen from over one hundred fifty girls who auditioned in the spring.

OUTSIDE THE GREAT HALL before the knighting of Lancelot du Lac of Joyeaux Gards, the subjects of King Arthur proudly display the flags of the numerous sections of England. Soon the King and Queen Guenevere will enter in their gold costumes.

Camelot Portrays a Utopia of Medieval England

"I KNIGHT YOU SIR TOM OF WARWICK," says King Jim Wright to Mike Murphy as Pellinore, Dave Outhouse, watches the ceremony.

The A Cappella Choir's production of the musical-drama Camelot reached its conclusion at a special Sunday matinee performance on April 11. On April 8, 9, and 10, the choir had played to capacity audiences.

Jim Wright portrayed King Arthur, who first conceived of the Knighthood of the Round Table and the concept of using might for right. Arthur's Queen, Guenevere, was played by Elaine Ellison. Her illicit love affair with a piously conceited French knight, Lancelot, played by Denny O'Brien, resulted in the devastation of the medieval utopia of Camelot.

King Pellanore, Arthur's companion and a "regular cartoon of a man," was portrayed by Dave Outhouse. Pelly's humorous comments and advice delighted the audiences and added a light touch to the rather serious story. Mordred, the absolutely horrid, sly little boy Arthur sired while under a magic spell, was played by Bob Smith. Mordred's wickedly beautiful aunt, Morgan le Fey, was Emily Backus. Her ability to build an invisible wall around King Arthur enabled her nephew to capture Lancelot and Guenevere together.

Guenevere's velvet gowns, King Pellanore's suit of armor, and the knights' dashing costumes greatly added to the play's authenticity.

Apollo Club Makes Spectators' Hearts Beat

Music written and arranged by such men as Robert Shaw, Leonard Bernstein, Harry Belafonte, and Roger Wagner provided an opportunity for the members of Jeff's Apollo Club to exercise their masculine voices and perform some fine music. While performing, the boys wore maroon sports coats. These jackets matched the dresses of the girls in the Voices of Jeff, whom the Apollo Club sometimes accompanied.

The youngest member of Jeff's vocal organizations, the Apollo Club consisted of thirty boys. Although this was only its second year of existence, enrollment increased one hundred per cent. Serving as president of the Apollo Club was Bruce McAdams; he was assisted by Tim Day, vice president, and Doug McAdams, secretary-treasurer. John Clark directed the group.

On December 9 in the Sunnyside Auditorium, the members of the Apollo Club participated in the annual Christmas Mood put on by the Jeff Choral Music and Speech Departments. The group also entered the state choral contest sponsored by the Indiana Music Educators Association, competing this year for the first time in the Class A category.

For Governor-Elect

"For the A Cappella Choir of Jefferson High School with thanks and good wishes—Roger Branigan—December 7, 1964." This was the inscription on a program sent to Jeff's A Cappella Choir by Indiana's new governor several days after their performance at the Lafayette Recognition Banquet, where nearly one thousand members of the community honored the new governor.

The A Cappella Choir presented more shows this year than it had in previous years. Not only did it perform at the governor's banquet, but also for the Rotary Club at the Morris Bryant Hotel and for the Industrial Management Club at the Purdue Union North Ballroom. At the annual Purdue University Trustee's Dinner-Dance, the A Cappella Choir was asked to present the musical portion of the program, which was usually done by the Purdue Glee Club.

"Days of Wine and Roses," "Hello Dolly," and "Charade" were sung at the choir's annual convocation for the Jeff student body.

Officers of the choir were Stuart Valentine, president; Jim Barton, vice president; Elaine Ellison, treasurer; and Joan Miller, secretary. Richard Jaeger was the director and John Clark, the accompanist.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR MEMBERS, Steve Smith, Linda Ade, and Jim Smith don't act their ages when they perform as "The Triplets."

Pep Band Boosts Gridders at Away Games

CARROLL H. COPELAND leads the Basketball Band in a pre-game number as the Block Section accompanies music with motions.

Resplendent in bright red jackets decorated with the Pep Band insignia, the boys in the Jeff Pep Band blasted out rousing numbers at all of the pep sessions, making students' spirits soar. Besides furnishing music for the half-hour pep sessions, the Pep Band accompanied the football squad to out-of-town games and provided instrumental stimulus for the fans who went along to cheer the team at these games. The group also enthusiastically aided the cheerleaders in leading Jeff's excited pupils in pre-game yells. The sponsor of the Pep Band was C. James Schnabel; Ed Williams was the band's manager; and Tom Carlson was drum major.

The Basketball Band cooperated with the Pep Band by playing at basketball games and provided background music for Block Section renditions of Jeff chants. On several occasions, the Basketball Band accompanied the Block Section in special card shows. At every game the band performed the "Star Spangled Banner" with a color guard and played the school song. C. H. Copeland was the band's adult adviser; Ed Williams was the student director; and Bob Murray was librarian.

Dance Band Adds Spirit to Holiday Tourney

Playing for school dances across the state, the Jeff Dance Band strengthened its already high reputation as a good high school dance band. This band played for the Holiday Tourney at Jeff, taking the place of the Basketball Band. By doing this, the members of the Dance Band were able to demonstrate their skill and versatility, and at the same time they were able to provide the regular Basketball Band with a short vacation.

On March 7 at Sunnyside Auditorium, the Dance Band participated in a concert with the Jeff Orchestra. The Band also presented a convocation at Jeff during which the band's pianist, Craig Spence, played a modern piece which he had composed himself.

The Dance Band won a first division rating at the District Solo and Ensemble Contest, and on February 20 the members went to Indianapolis and captured a first division rating at the State Solo and Ensemble Contest for the ninth year in succession.

Adult adviser to the Dance Band was C. H. Copeland, and Ed Williams was the student director.

Buying Uniforms is Goal of Concert Band;

Performing inspiring concerts under the direction of C. H. Copeland, the musicians in Jeff's Concert Band developed their ability to play various band instruments, learned to appreciate all types of band literature, and became acquainted with great composers.

Collaborating with the Orchestra and the other bands, the Concert Band performed in the Christmas Concert. The band also performed at convocations for Jeff's student body, presented a formal concert, and entered the annual Band, Orchestra, and Choral Contest sponsored by the Indiana School Music Association.

The Marching Band, with Tom Carlson and Tom Parks as drum majors, gave dazzling half-time performances at the football games, and also marched at the State Fair and the Christmas parade.

The most profitable projects for the bands were selling fruitcakes for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays and sponsoring a pro basketball game. The money went into the Band and Orchestra Uniform Fund.

Officers, elected by pupils in the Concert Band and the Symphony Band, served for both. Those officers elected from the Concert Band were Marie Kuss, assistant secretary; Dick Jones, treasurer; and Tom Parks, assistant librarian.

Classical Concerts on Agenda for Symphony

The melodious notes of "Cantique de Noel" filled Sunnyside auditorium on December 13 as Jeff's Symphony Band performed in the annual Christmas concert. Later in the year the band gained additional experience by presenting two formal classical concerts and by giving convocations at Jeff and at the two junior high schools.

Learning to perform pieces of advanced difficulty provided the musicians with a knowledge of great composers and prepared them for the annual Band, Orchestra, and Choral Contest.

The musicians in the Symphony Band learned to excel in salesmanship too. Throughout November and December they sold fruitcakes, ranging in size from two to five pounds. Their sales totaled about 1500 pounds, and profits mounted to $1450. This money went into the Band and Orchestra Uniform Fund.

C. H. Copeland was the director of the Symphony Band, and the band officers were Ed Williams, president; James Owen, vice president; Diana Belcher, secretary; David Riley, assistant treasurer; and Bob Murray, librarian.

Fruitcakes and Candy for Needed Uniforms

Trips to the State Orchestra Contest and the State Solo and Ensemble Contest enabled Jeff orchestra members to display their techniques and talents. Joining with high school pupils from all over the state, Jeff string players participated in the Manchester College All-State String Festival.

The Orchestra also performed at the Jeff Christmas convocation, the Christmas Concert, the winter concert, the All-City Orchestra Festival, and Commencement. Playing for the two junior high schools was another activity which the members profited from.

To help boost the Band and Orchestra Uniform Fund, the orchestra collaborated with the band in sponsoring a professional basketball game. The selling of fruit-cakes for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays helped pay orchestra transportation expenses.

Directing the orchestra was C. James Schnabel. President Jim Owen was assisted by Susie Kimbrell, vice president; Cindy Willey, secretary; Joyce Kerfoot, treasurer; and Pat Barnard, wind representative. These officers and the orchestra members dedicated themselves to providing good music for the community.

After losing a group of seniors which included all-staters Dick Lester and Bruce Gunstra, Coach Pat McCaffry and his staff were faced with the task of organizing a winning team consisting of nearly all inexperienced gridgers. Although the team was inexperienced, its efforts resulted in a fine 6-3-1 mark and second place in the North Central Conference for the third year in succession. The team members voted Jim Moffett as the Most Valuable Player, and Jack Sovern received the Mental Attitude Award. Fred Bolyard was elected the captain of the team.

Bouncing back after a poor season last year, the Broncho "B" gridders posted a perfect 9-0 record. It must be noted that this year's squad was unusually well balanced. Not only could the offense boast of a near 30 point game average, but this team also featured a fine defense which held their opponents to a mere 7 point game average. The coaches, Bob Downing and Jack Schult, agreed that the success this season was a result of great team effort. They felt that these boys, who were nearly all sophomores, may bring Jeff several successful football seasons.

FLEXING HIS MUSCLES, sophomore wrestler Rick Rouse uses all his strength and skill in pinning down a Logansport Berry.

Boasting seven returning lettermen, the 1965 Jeff wrestling squad compiled a 7-4 record in regular season competition and earned sixth place in the North Central Conference. With the services of senior lettermen John Hollcraft, Tom Croxton, and Rick Comer as well as those of junior letter winners Lerrill White, Avery Fultz, Dale Richardson and Jim Henderson, Coach Norm Willey's grapplers succeeded in defeating Logansport for the first time in the history of Jeff wrestling. Tom Croxton was undefeated in regular season play, and Rick Comer advanced to the state finals. Since six underclassmen will return as experienced matmen, Jeff's wrestling future looks bright.

Despite being handicapped by a small practice pool, the Jeff swimming team compiled a record of three wins and three losses this year. This record is rather deceiving, however, because the team faced some of the state's roughest competition. Senior Dale Kenrich finished third in the breaststroke division in the IHSAA meet this year and was voted MVP by his teammates. Kenrich and another senior, Roger Beaver, served as the mermen's co-captains. These two boys and six other lettermen earned Jeff a second place in NCC swimming competition as compared with eighth place last year. A B-team was also formed this year.

Underclassmen Help Jeff Track and Cross

THREE CROSS-COUNTRY LETTERMEN, Dan Walkey, Barry Bahler, Steve Minniear, discuss ways to improve their running styles.

Winning its first six meets and losing only to eventual State Champion West Lafayette, this year's cross-country team compiled an impressive 6-1 record. In doing so, Coach Phil Hurt's squad posted the best record of any Jeff cross-country team.

The strong Broncho crew, led by veteran ace Dan Walkey and junior lettermen Barry Bahler and Steve Minniear, won the Frankfort Invitational Meet for the second straight year and placed third in the North Central Conference. This third place finish in the NCC was the best ever posted in the history of Jeff cross-country.

In the light of the success of this year's team, composed mainly of underclassmen, Jeff shall undoubtedly seek to maintain its record and present stiff competition to all opponents.

Having six returning lettermen and some very strong sophomore runners, Coaching Downing's track squad established a 5-1 record in dual meets and won one of two triangular meets.

After being beaten by West Lafayette in a triangular meet with Central Catholic, the Jeff thinlies came back in the Central Indiana Conference meet to edge West Lafayette 59½-58.

In the Sectional, the half-mile relay team, the 880 relay team, and Dick Campbell in the 220 gained firsts. Jeff placed third.

Sophomore Mike Lester was chosen as M.V.P.; Don Worthington received the mental attitude award. Barry Bahler was the most improved.

Jeff's tennis team, bolstered by veteran lettermen Denny Cahill, Jim Cochran, Dave Lewis, Jerry Hawker, and Jim Barton, entered the 1965 season with the hope of winning the North Central Conference championship after placing second last year.

In 1964 the team compiled a record of nine wins and five losses, falling only to Anderson in conference play. Cochran was elected Most Valuable Player and served as co-captain with Cahill.

Every Tuesday evening thirty-two boys braved rain, hail, sleet, and snow to participate in the Jeff Bowling League. Through rich times and poor, sickness and health, their sponsor, Paul Deppert, traveled to Star Lanes to oversee the activities of the League. One of the highlights of the season was the singles tournament held during Christmas vacation.

Outstanding accomplishments of the bowlers included Dave Cortner's high average of 160, and Martin Braaksma's high game of 243. The Deacons topped all other teams in the final standings. The feats of the kegglers were recorded by their secretary, Tom Davis.

GAA Participates in All-State Track Meet

Badminton tourneys, track meets, volleyball tournaments, and ping pong matches kept the members of Jeff's Girls' Athletic Association physically fit. Many of the members used their skills and participated in district contests of athletic ability. For the first time in Indiana, a state championship track elimination of girls was held. In preparation for this, the girls trained with the regular track team under coaches Bob Downing and Phil Hurt. GAA sponsored a volleyball tournament in March for girls in the area surrounding Lafayette.

Some members of the Girls' Athletic Association earned "J's", which they received on Honor Day in May. These letters may be worn on black sweaters like those that members of the J Club wear. The girls competed in contests to earn points toward a "J". Other awards, such as plaques and pins and Jeff keys, were also presented to deserving members.

Monday evenings from December to March found the Jeff gym overrun with eager basketball players. The varsity and B team had finished practicing, however; it was time for the intramural teams to play. Over 130 boys participated in intramural competition. They were divided into two leagues of six teams each.

As is usually the case, play was dominated by senior teams. The Chuggers finished with a perfect 10-0 record, and the Chinese Bandits ended regular season play with a 9-1 slate, suffering their only defeat to the Chuggers. In the tournament held at the end of the season, the Chuggers defeated the Bandits again and then had an easy time beating the Moonshiners and capturing the championship.

Sorting sweaty uniforms; cleaning filthy, humid locker rooms; checking equipment; and recording scores are examples of the often over-looked efforts which student managers afford our Athletic Department. Student managers are the boys whom one finds working industriously around our football field and locker rooms; many times their work continues after everyone else has left. The efforts of these boys are essential in making our athletic teams successful. For performing their various duties the managers receive letters, making them eligible to become members of the J Club.

Serving as managers for our football teams during the 1964 season were Bruce Underwood, Mike Smith, Jim Van der Veen, Leo King, Mike Vernon, and Don LaFon. Bruce Underwood and Mike Vernon, along with Jim Smith and Jeff Brewer, served as managers for the basketball teams. Jerry Smith and Dick Mullen were the managers for the cross country team, Jim Van der Veen for the wrestling team, Jim Yuill for the swimming team, and Lon Huffman for the tennis team. Jim Van der Veen and Leo King managed the baseball squads, and Dick Jones was the track manager.

Bursting with enthusiasm and noise, the Jefferson High School Block Section again backed the Broncho basketball team. Led by the varsity cheerleaders, the Block Section performed many intricate hand motions, yells, and card shows.

After gathering in the cafeteria before each game, the Block would file into the gymnasium shouting "You better move; here come the Bronchos now!"

During the Christmas season the Block formed a Christmas tree and Sock with cards and sang "Jingle Bells" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas." In addition to using cards, the members wore white gloves and used red and black pom-poms to present their shows. Money was collected at the beginning of the year to pay for the cards and pom-poms.

The organizers of the Block Section spent many hours creating new glove and pom-pom routines and making seating charts. Barb Booher and Pam Holt were the captains, with Carol Conkling and Kathi Kiser serving as co-captains. Miss Jean Hilkert was adviser.

Looking to the Future

Preparing Jeff's pupils to be useful citizens of the community, state, and nation is of utmost importance. This task is entrusted to the administration of Jefferson High School. It must prepare to contend with new methods of teaching, new textbooks, and new equipment to relay knowledge to the pupils since a new high school is in the making. In addition, the administration must not overlook civic, social, and political obligations. The decisions which the administration makes each day are difficult. Many of them are applicable to everyday problems, but all of them require Jeff's faculty to look to the future.

as New High School Site is Finally Picked

Finding a site for the new Jefferson High School was a topic of much discussion at this year's meetings of the school board. Lafayette's eight member board discussed the many problems that arise when a new school is built, studied several possible locations, and finally voted to purchase the Pythian Home site.

Directing the board meetings was one duty of Dr. J. Russell Hiatt, Lafayette's Superintendent of Schools. He also hired new teachers with the approval of the school board. Preparation of the annual budget was another of Dr. Hiatt's responsibilities as was the operation of the entire school corporation.

Charles Martin, principal, supervised the Jeff faculty. Assistant principal William Levering worked closely with the pupils and handled discipline problems. Leonard Smith, assistant principal of curriculum and instruction, chose the school's textbooks and planned courses.

Aiding the pupils in subject selection and vocational choice were the guidance counselors: Paul Deppert, Robert Finley, Miss Jean Hilkert, Mrs. Gertrude Krueger, Francis Lane, and James Murray. A new system of counseling made it possible for pupils to have the same counselor all three years at Jeff.

Jeff Teachers Tour Europe, United States

"HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN!" states C. J. Hopkins after final tallies prove his candidate victorious over his wife's choice.

Jeff's teachers found many leisurely ways to spend their vacations. Harry Green enjoyed hunting and fishing in Canada, as did Mrs. Louise Harrison, Mrs. Delores Grubb, and Mrs. Margene Lewis. Glacier National Park and Banff National Park in Canada were the sites of Mrs. LaNelle Baxter's vacation.

Several teachers' trips proved educational as well as fun. Mrs. Marian Gettings toured Washington, D. C., and New York City. Robert Finley, A. W. Maurer, and Mrs. Geraldine Heath also visited our nation's capital.

A few of Jeff's teachers spent their vacations in foreign lands. John Clark, Mrs. Gertrude Kruger, Mrs. Marcia Gaunt, and Mrs. Mary Papageorgiou toured Europe. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hopkins visited thirteen European countries and the Hawaiian Islands.

Excitement filled many teachers' lives. Paul Deppert spoke on his ham radio to a man in Quito, Ecuador. Mrs. Emily Price became quite elated when she caught a ping pong ball dropped from a helicopter and was rewarded a Hershey Bar for her unusual talent. Milton Green, Mrs. Kathleen Moston, and Edward Shoff went to the World's Fair; Kenneth Conkling and James Stalker visited Disneyland. Truly, Jeff teachers lead very interesting lives.

Senior Year Climaxes High School Career

Top Ten—Connie Guinnup, Ned Kivett, Mark Bohnhorst, Joh-D Downie, Jim Miller, Mary Martha Sears, Dan Friedman, Jim Barton, John Crook, James Owen.

Last fall found the class of 1965 assuming roles of seniority. The 550 seniors, making up the largest class in Jeff's history, proudly wore their new yellow cords on the first day of school. Not lacking, of course, was the traditional senior spirit of authority as the seniors assumed their place of honor as the oldest, most experienced class.

The last day before the close of the magazine sale found the seniors $2,000* short of their $9,000 goal. However, last-minute sales enabled them to exceed the goal by over $3,000. Teamwork paid off for Pat Ainsworth's team, who had the highest sales. Top individual salesmen were Tom Montague and Marsha Buttry. Helping to make the magazine sale a success were co-chairmen Connie Guinnup and Jim Barton, who had begun planning the sale in the fall before school began.

Class officers, elected in the spring of their junior year, were John Cripe, president; Jan Newhard, vice president; and Linda Ade, secretary-treasurer.

Planning was also part of the senior year. In the fall, senior pictures were taken; later in the year the senior gift committee and prom committees were chosen; and in preparation for graduation, name cards, announcements, and caps and gowns were ordered.

THE OUTSTANDING POINTS of various colleges are discussed by the class officers: John Cripe, Jan Newhard, and Linda Ade.

THE JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS Dick Jones, Emily Backus, and Duke Hartman get together to discuss plans for the coming year.

Just one year away from becoming the distinguished seniors, the junior class held the annual wrapping paper sale. Tom Hall and Dick Kiefer, co-chairmen, organized and promoted it.

The Jefferson juniors chose Duke Hartman as their president. Offering valuable assistance to him were Dick Jones, vice president, and Emily Backus, secretary-treasurer. Serving as sponsor for the class was Robert Finley, one of Jeff's guidance counselors.

In a realm of excitement, the class of 1966 received their rhombus shaped class rings in early October. Never before had pupils admired their hands so frequently as did these excited juniors!

In December, Mike Smith brought honor to the class by winning the William Randolph Hearst Foundation United States Senate Youth Program award. He was chosen from over six hundred pupils to represent the state of Indiana in a meeting with the President of the United States in late January.

Classmates Elected Class of '67 Officers

CLASS OFFICERS Joy Good, Carolyn Lybault, and Jim Smith check over records from a class project—selling senior name cards.

The class of '67 began its career at Jeff with five hundred eighty-one members. Sponsored by Mrs. Gertrude Krueger, the youngest class at Jeff experienced their first all-class meetings held in the gym. These were led by their elected class officers: Jim Smith, president; Carolyn Lybault, vice president; and Joy Good, secretary-treasurer.

As in previous years, the sophomores made money for their senior prom from pencil machines located in the halls, and by selling senior name cards which were sent out by the seniors in the graduation announcements.

Excitement and indecision were the sophomores' companions when the time came to order class rings. Interested greatly by the juniors' new rings at the beginning of the year, the sophomores waited impatiently for the time to order their class rings.

With the wider and better variety of courses available at Jeff than in their junior high schools, the sophomores developed new scholastic abilities. Having a counselor interested in helping them find their best skills was also a new experience for many sophomores.

Pencil Machines and Senior Name Cards

AS THE "STAR-SPANGLED BANNER" reverberates from the worn rafters of Jeff gym, Tom Richey leads his squad in presenting arms.

Acknowledgements

Looking back on the many hours of happiness, confusion, and frustration which accompanied this fifty-second edition of the Nautilus, we realize that our work was greatly aided by several people. We wish to thank these persons who helped us with our task.

Our final product could not have evolved correctly without the patient help of our adviser, Kenneth Andrews. He endured our ignorance and noise, prodded us to meet deadlines, but left the decisions with us. Our deepest thanks are directed toward him.

Mrs. Katurah Wray and Mrs. Louise Harrison deserve many thanks for the time they spent reading and correcting our copy. We are also very grateful for the excellent individual portraits, group pictures, and candid shots photographed by Gil Hutton of Photo Art Studios. Our thanks also go to Phillips Photo Center for their cooperation in developing many of our pictures.

The S. K. Smith Company is responsible for the Nautilus's cover. The Haywood Publishing Company printed the yearbook.

We also wish to thank Mrs. Joyce Good and Mrs. Noble Cripe for selling yearbook subscriptions in the general office and Mrs. Doris Willis for helping us with our finances. We are also indebted to Elbert Morgan who printed our forms and stationery. Last, but certainly not least, we deeply thank Charles Martin, our principal, Jeff's faculty, and the student body for cooperating with our schedules and supporting our work.

Autographs

Dick
To a bellave fast runner. Remember all of at damn track meet & in summer. Good luck future.
Phil

Good Luck
Brendy
Brady

Dick,
Good Luck to a real fast movin'
guy. Phil Lawer

Dick,
Our fight in sociology kept it interesting. you're a real great kid and I wish you the best of luck & luckier.

Dick,
So a real luck guy. Good Have always this summer.

Dick -
Best of Luck in the future to a real great kid. Hope to see you this summer.

Autographs

Dick
So a good track star who helped our team a lot. Good luck always.

Mat Bled
6/11

P.S.

To Gan
this must be a great friend. I say wrestling is still better.
Vinden
is still better.
The Best of Luck
Summer and
"A" student hall we share work in never know.
wrestling is better
who thinks a way

Dick
to a kid who is (all things considered) not too bad a runner. Good luck in the future years. (You'll need it!)
Henry Walker

Autographs

Dick - a real you're a guy with a great personality and a wonderful sense of humor! I'll never forget the times in Mrs. Anderson's 7th grade art class when you suggested Chatfield and me go back to remember the arguments those dirty "horses" had over have fun! B-Good and Cobiseno

Dick - a truly wonderful
guy. Never forget all the fun we had in Civics and in Soc. I hope someday
you learn to appreciate "horses". Best of luck in all you do
Cynthia

Dick
I think of all the things I could write and can't, and think of all the things I could and won't. Because it not right to write about a friend that way.
So I will write, ~~Good~~ luck always, and may all your kids have blond hair
"Luck always" "65"
Tom Conrad

Pick
a real nice
guy. We had a lot of fun in Basic Business class. Well be good and have a lot of fun
Ron Deaton

Dick,
Remember how Coach Hart
also cuss you out when you went ahead of her one. I'll never forget the great race we had on the relay team. I hope you do some good in college, and in you study, which I know you can do better well, and hope to see you around this summer.
Jim Haddock

Dick
Will we have finally made it at last. Remember good ole basic business. Pick of luck in the place so come, take it easy senior well. AB work AB old

Dick,
Have fun
next year and good luck. Don't forget Literature
class and the fun
in there.
Geri Haddock

Dick,
 It's been fun
 having you this semester -
 I'm a great guy, even though I never could cheat off ~~the~~ your "papers". Good luck in the future to a neat guy. Curtis Ha! I got a better grade than my term paper - good

Click,
 Its been late of fun knowing you these past years. You're a real great guy.
 Always
 remember Eng.
 Lit and Mrs.
 Harrison.
 Best of luck in the future
 Nancy
 Wainwright

Dick
To the rat who always did better than I did in Eng. I. and Soc. Have fun and Be Good.
Bob Munson Pat Ainsworth

P.S. Remember P. Hartt
and running cross-country.

Dick,

Dick -
So a real good kid. Lots of luck in whatever you do. Remember
"soc."
Mary Jane

Dick,
What are you
going to do now
that you can't sit
up in the Nalcomy
living room.
Send love always
Bill Whitwell

Mary

Dick - really
To a keep up the good fight & make of the old things about me give me all your love and run.

Dick,
What are you
going to do now
that you can't sit up in the Nalcom
kitchen + a hour.
Good luck always
Bill Whitwell
